Answering Personal Sexual Questions Just Like Yours

■ know you have questions about sex. Everyone does. Do you want those questions you have about sex answered? The ones you wouldn't even ask your friends? Or maybe there are questions you have that you didn't realize you had until you saw them posed. I'm gonna answer them—and more!

During my clinical career, specializing in treating love and sex issues, I was asked to be the sexuality consultant for a site that had 25 million visitors annually. My challenge was answering email questions on sexuality from the site's visitors, most of whom appeared eager to finally get answers to their most perplexing and personal questions.

Having supervised the oldest hospital-based Sexuality Center in the nation for twenty years, and written numerous books on love and sex, I was superbly confident and as eager to provide answers as the questioners were to pose them. What followed though actually took me by surprise.

The questions were the most personal and intimate ever thrown at me. Perhaps it was because they were asked anonymously and through the Internet, rather than face-to-face. Perhaps the visitors to the site were a select group who were very curious about sexual issues.

Whatever the reason, the questions you are about to read are drawn from real people, they are not made up—and the answers are, well, sometimes a little edgy, that's me, but always truthful and spot on!

Read on, see what others just like you are thinking, feeling and wondering about their sexuality. I'm confident the Q & As will touch on your most personal concerns, and if you have more, concerns that were not addressed, write me an email detailing your sexual issue. There's a bonus waiting for you if you do.

You may find yourself in the next e-book, along with even more sexual issues from people just like yourself. Your anonymity will be fully protected of course. And, to show you my appreciation for reaching out to me with a question, if I use it, I will send you the entire e-book, containing your Q & A and many, many more. Free!
